MARTIN CREED

January 21 to March 4, 2006
Opening: 6 p.m. on January 20, 2006

“ I am sick of thinking. I am sick and tired of thinking. I want my work to be more like a vomit than a rumination. I just want to go ‘Blah!’. Or ‘Woosh!’”

Martin Creed was awarded the prestigious Turner Prize in 2001 for his “Work No. 227: The lights going on and off”. He took part in last year’s Biennale de Lyon and a major solo exhibition of his work was held in Bern’s Kunsthalle in 2003. Both London’s Tate Modern and New York’s Museum of Modern Art have recently included some of his important works in their collections. He will be displaying a series of new works in his first exhibition at Hauser & Wirth Zurich.

“I am trying to get from the inside out.”

All quotations by Martin Creed; from The Roland Penrose Memorial Lecture given at The National Gallery, London, in November, 2005

Opening times: Tues–Fri 12 noon – 6 p.m., Sat 11 a.m. – 5 p.m.
